COMMERCIAL GREEN BUILDING DISCUSSIONS

Future proof or waterproof? H₂O – tomorrows gold

You are invited to attend the next Melbourne Forum:

Don't be left high and dry! Due to wide spread water shortages, the June Melbourne Forum focuses on the latest in water efficiency solutions in the commercial built environment.

You are invited to hear Kate Brennan, CEO, Federation Square, Geoff Gardiner, General Manager Service Sustainability, City West Water and Glen Millott, Senior environmental engineer, Walter J Pratt Pty Ltd who will share first hand knowledge about the latest water conservation technologies in commercial buildings. The following topics will be discussed:

Water saving features at Federation Square

Kate Brennan, CEO of Fed Square Pty Ltd will give an overview of the water saving features at Federation Square from a facilities perspective. She will also discuss the partnership with City West Water that has delivered some great outcomes.

Water Conservation Solutions – City West Water

City West Water is one of three water companies in Melbourne working with its residential and non residential customers to deliver sustainable reductions in potable water use and achieve water savings targets set by the State Government for Melbourne.

City West Water has a large industrial and commercial customer base and has developed programs tailored to meet their needs. City West Water's approach is to work collaboratively with its customers and one case, involving a partnership with Federation Square, will be discussed by Geoff.

Black is the new green

Glen will discuss Australia's first and second commercial black water recycling systems, in Urban Workshop and Southern Cross Redevelopment. He will provide an overview of the systems, discuss his experiences on the project and advise on ways and means of implementing future schemes.

Date & Time: 26 June 2007, 5:00pm for a 5:30pm start

The Venue: The Treasury Theatre, Lower Plaza, 1 Macarthur Street, East Melbourne

This is a free event, please invite your colleagues. You must be registered to attend. Please RSVP to melbforum@airah.org.au
